REDISCOVERING RHETORIC Law, Language and the Practice of Persuasion

Justin T Gleeson and Ruth C A Higgins (editors)

Rhetoric is ubiquitous in modern discourse: from arguments delivered in the High Court, to advertisements disseminated in the high street. For the legal and political advocate, persuasion is also a professional technique that must be perfected properly to practise each art.

Yet modern curricula almost entirely neglect any theoretical study of the methods of rhetoric. Rediscovering Rhetoric re-introduces modern practitioners and students of law and politics to the speeches, writings and methodologies of the great classical scholars of rhetoric.

Contents

- Part 1 - Law and Language in the Greco-Roman Tradition
 - "The empty eloquence of fools": Rhetoric in Classical Greece
 - Cicero's De Oratore, Pro Milone and the Philippics: Character, Argument and Emotion
 - Quintilian and the Public Attainment of Justice
 - Hermogenes of Tarsus: Rhetorical Bridge from the Ancient World to the Modern
- Part 2 - The Practice of Persuasion
 - The Rise (and Fall?) of the Barrister Class
 - Rhetoric in Law – A Case for Optimism
 - Aspects of Rhetoric in Forensic Advocacy Over the Past 50 years
- Part 3 - The Politics of Persuasion
 - The Political Rhetoric of American Aspiration
 - 20th-Century Political Rhetoric: Churchill, Menzies and Whitlam

TRIBUNALS IN THE COMMON LAW WORLD

Robin Creyke (editor)

This book provides a contemporary snapshot of tribunals and tribunal jurisprudence in the common law world, with contributions and comparative studies from Australia, Canada, New Zealand and the United Kingdom.

It discusses key practical issues like natural justice, policy, tribunal independence and evidence, as well as the directions in which tribunals are likely to move in the future.

Contributions are drawn from a distinguished cast of international tribunal experts, judges and practitioners.

CITIZENSHIP IN A POST-NATIONAL WORLD Australia and Europe Compared

Simon Bronitt and Kim Rubenstein (editors)

Four essays explore the value and role of a more “global” view of citizenship. The first two essays focus on expatriate voting rights for Italian and Australian citizens. The third essay examines the concept of citizenship as it has developed in Australia, where new citizens have greater expectations placed on them than citizens by birth. The final essay discusses the possibility of European citizenship, rather than national citizenship within Europe.

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS
Federal, State and Local 4th edition

Nicholas Seddon

Government Contracts is Australia’s definitive legal text on all levels of government contracting and has been cited as an authority in High Court judgments. It focuses on the legal issues that may arise in connection with government contracts and which have no parallel in the private sector. It explains the law in a manner that government contract managers and their private sector counterparts doing business with government will find indispensable. Presented in plain English, it is also accessible to the lay reader.

This new edition includes up to date case law, relevant policy developments and legislation relating to government contracting (principally procurement).

SALE OF BUSINESSES IN AUSTRALIA
2nd edition

SA Christensen and WD Duncan

This book covers all major aspects of transactions involving the sale of businesses. It is organised around common clauses in the standard business agreements commonly used in Australia (set out in the appendix and referenced to the text). It takes the transaction from negotiation to completion, giving detailed treatment to pre-contractual disclosure, investigation of title of assets, completion and remedies upon default, in a heavily referenced and discursive manner.

LAW OF CONTRACT

Peter Gillies and Niloufer Selvadurai

Law of Contract provides a clear and comprehensive discussion of the principles governing contracts in Australia.

It covers the principles applicable to the formation, interpretation, rescission, termination and enforcement of contracts with extensive reference to relevant case law. The legal principles governing the capacity to enter contracts, privity, and the relationship between principal and agent in a contractual arrangement are analysed in some detail. Other topics include the legislation governing specific types of contracts, such as contracts for the sale of goods and consumer contracts, and the remedies available upon breach of contract.

ADVOCACY

Preparation and Performance

Hugh M Selby

Persuasive questioning and argument in courts and tribunals need skills in case preparation and techniques of presentation. This book explains the 'what', the 'why' and the 'how' of basic advocacy skills and techniques. It is designed for the newcomer, as an explanation and illustration of the essential first steps along the road to renown.

Topics covered include:

- knowing the audience
- developing the legal and factual case
- developing a "game plan"
- mastering the facts, both good and bad
- witness interviews, the scene, experts' reports
- the argument, including interlocutory applications procedure, pleas-in-mitigation, and the closing address
- court procedure, protocol, etiquette and the actual experience of being in a courtroom
- opening statements and questioning witnesses
- preparing the witness and giving evidence
- when and how to cross-examine witnesses, leading questions, rules of fairness, objections, impeachment, credibility and hearsay.

The final section is an Advocacy Dictionary to help with terminology.

CONCISE LEGAL RESEARCH
6th edition

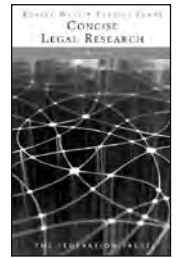

Robert Watt and Francis Johns

Concise Legal Research details the technical aspects of legal sources and explains how to research law with confidence and in good time.

This new edition focuses on the impact of online access and the need for the researcher to move seamlessly between traditional and electronic resources. All strategies that have been created to incorporate hard copy researching techniques have been updated with alternative electronic methods.

Particular attention has been paid to the chapter on secondary sources, and to successful structured approaches to online research through which the many inherent pitfalls can be avoided.

CALLING OUT THE TROOPS

The Australian Military and Civil Unrest

Michael Head

Under new troop call-out legislation, the Australian Defence Force can be deployed on such vague grounds as 'domestic violence' and 'Commonwealth interests'. Military commanders are given sweeping powers, including to use lethal force, shoot down civilian aircraft, interrogate people, raid premises and seize documents. This book explores the legal and constitutional uncertainties created by the laws in Australia, as well as global trends and the wider implications.

REGULATING FOR JOB CREATION

John Howe

Regulating for Job Creation uses a regulatory perspective to chart the trajectory of Australian Government efforts to create jobs and reduce unemployment over the period 1974-2006, an era when, paradoxically, there is said to have been a 'hollowing out' of the state. The book presents case studies of three key Australian job creation programs.

Howe argues that the state has played an increasingly complex and diverse regulatory role in the formulation and implementation of labour market policies. He shows how job creation programs are a significant aspect of this role and the primary mechanism for the distribution of labour in capitalist democracies.

NON-ADVERSARIAL JUSTICE

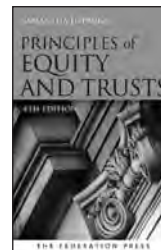

Michael King, Arie Freiberg, Becky Batagol and Ross Hyams

This book outlines key aspects of the growing trend towards the use of non-adversarial justice across a great diversity of legal landscape.

The authors compare Australian approaches with other countries – including the United States, Canada, New Zealand, and the United Kingdom – and identify common features and points of difference. They discuss these approaches as they relate to therapeutic jurisprudence; restorative justice; preventive law; creative problem solving; holistic approaches to law; appropriate dispute resolution; non-adversarial processes in family law; problem-oriented courts; diversion programs; Indigenous courts; managerial and administrative justice; and coroners.

They also examine the implications for courts, the legal profession and legal education.

AUSTRALIAN OFFSHORE LAWS

Michael White and Sophie White

This book collects in one place the jurisdiction of all Australian laws that apply offshore.

It contains a major constitutional law chapter in which the development of the Australian jurisdiction offshore is mapped out, with the two great agreements between the Commonwealth and the States: the Offshore Petroleum Agreement 1967 and the Offshore Constitutional Settlement 1979.

Other chapters cover the laws relating to offshore petroleum, fisheries, illegal immigration by boat, the defence forces regulating these matters offshore, the offshore shipping laws and laws that apply in the Great Barrier Reef and the Torres Strait.

Finally, the authors propose a basis and a structure for future reform of the Australian laws and offshore enforcement structure.

MINING LAW IN WESTERN AUSTRALIA

4th edition

Michael W Hunt

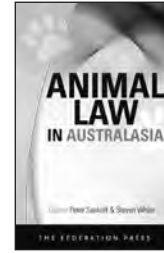

This essential reference for all legal issues relating to the mining industry in Western Australia is now in its fourth edition. Chapter by chapter commentary follows the structure of the Mining Act itself, and the text is now up-to-date for the massive changes that have taken place since the last edition:

- 15 amendments to the Mining Act and 28 amendments to the Mining Regulations;
- numerous cases decided in the High Court, the Supreme Court and the Wardens' Courts;
- the impact of the Native Title Act on the application of mining law; and
- changes in the area of proceedings before the Warden.

The author's practical approach to the legal issues that confront mining and exploration projects in Western Australia will resonate with resources lawyers grappling with similar problems in other Australian jurisdictions.

ANIMAL LAW IN AUSTRALASIA

A New Dialogue

Peter Sankoff and Steven White (editors)

A scholarly examination of the legal relationship between humans and animals in Australia and

New Zealand. It asks whether existing laws really do protect animals, and, where the law comes up short, how it could be improved. The questions explored go beyond animal welfare and challenge the reader to think about the nature of legal interests, and practical and ethical contexts for a range of laws.

Australian, New Zealand and international academics and practitioners cover topics ranging from core concepts and theoretical questions around "animal welfare" and law, to specific matters of concern: animal cruelty sentencing, live animal export, recreational hunting, and commercial uses of animals in farming and research.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE – WORKING WITH MEN

Research Practice Experiences and Integrated Responses

Andrew Day, Patrick O’Leary, Donna Chung and Donna Justo

‘Integrated responses’ to domestic violence are designed to develop coordinated, appropriate, consistent responses aimed at enhancing victim safety, reducing secondary victimisation and holding abusers accountable for their violence. An increasingly important part of integrated responses is the delivery of interventions for male perpetrators of violence.

The contributors to this book, who are working with victims of domestic violence, and within the criminal justice system and integrated response programs, describe and discuss the provision of such programs and related services. They cover outcome data, theoretical and clinical issues relevant to program delivery, in detail.

Domestic Violence – Working With Men provides a timely resource in the development of programs and services to reduce the risk of known perpetrators committing further acts of violence towards women.

HOMOPHOBIA An Australian History

Shirleene Robinson
(editor)

Homophobia: An Australian History considers homophobia in a distinctively Australian context. In this collection, thirteen well-known scholars examine the embedded homophobic attitudes that Australian gay and lesbian activists have fought to change. The book traces the evolution of homophobia, from its expression in Australia’s past as a colonial settler society, through to manifestations in present day society.

IN THE SHADOW OF THE LAW

The Legal Context
of Social Work Practice
3rd edition

Philip Swain and Simon Rice (editors)

Social and welfare

workers need to know not just what the law is, but to understand how law and legal systems can be utilised, and how they can work in cooperation with lawyers rather than in competition.

In The Shadow of the Law examines a wide range of practice settings and user populations where social work practice and law interact. This edition is a comprehensive revision and includes new chapters on domestic violence, courts, tribunals and evidence, working with interpreters, social work and sexuality, housing, adoption and post adoption practice, family law, and social work and Indigenous Australians.

AUSTRALIA – THE STATE OF DEMOCRACY

Marian Sawer,
Norman Abjorensen
and Phil Larkin

This book assesses Australian political institutions and practices against a set of internationally tested indicators for democracy. The indicators derive from four basic principles—political equality, popular control of government, civil liberties and human rights, and the quality of public deliberation.

Comparative data are taken from Australia’s nine jurisdictions, as well as from Canada, New Zealand and the United Kingdom, to identify strengths, weaknesses and opportunities for reform.

THE QUEEN’S OTHER REALMS

The Crown and Its Legacy in Australia,
Canada & New Zealand

Peter Boyce

Canada, Australia and New Zealand inherited and adapted a monarchical framework of government, even in the absence of a resident monarch. This book compares the three countries, and asks: Can the current monarchical system be refined to the point of countering republican sentiment? Why has the republican argument gained more momentum in Australia than in Canada or New Zealand? Can a republican model retain residual monarchic elements? What is likely to be the lasting legacy of the Crown in these three strikingly similar political cultures?

The Federation Press supports sustainable publishing and endeavours to produce books as environmentally responsibly as we can. All books are printed with soy-based inks, and in 2005 we began printing some of our books on 100% post-consumer-waste paper, Cyclus. By 2007, the majority of our titles were printed on this recycled stock. Beginning in 2008, all our books are produced with either recycled paper or sustainable FSC (Forest Stewardship Council) certified paper.
