Marian Baird
Marian Baird is a senior lecturer in Work and Organisational Studies at the University of Sydney. As well as teaching in the undergraduate and graduate programs, Marian researches in the area of women, work and industrial relations.

William Brown
Willy Brown is professor of industrial relations and Master of Darwin College at Cambridge University. With long experience as an arbitrator and mediator he was until recently on the governing body of the ACAS. He is a founder member of the Low Pay Commission that fixes the British national minimum wage.

Ron Callus
Ron Callus is a former Director of the Australian Centre for Industrial Relations Research and Training (acirrt) at the University of Sydney. He was project Director of the Commonwealth Department of Industrial Relations’ first Australian Workplace Industrial Relations Survey (AWIRS).

Rae Cooper
Rae is one of Australia’s leading researchers in the area of trade union strategy. She has written extensively on trade union renewal and organising. Rae has recently embarked on a major research project on union recognition in Australia. Rae is a Lecturer in Work and Organisational Studies in the School of Business at the University of Sydney.

Michael Crosby
Michael Crosby has been a union official for nearly 30 years. From 1995-2005 he was Director of the ACTU Organising Centre. He has recently joined the American union, Service Employees International Union to be the Regional Organising Director for their Global Alliance.

Anne Daly
Anne Daly is an Associate Professor in Economics at the University of Canberra and a member of the Centre for Labour Market Research. Her research interests focus on labour market issues particularly on the position of women and Indigenous Australians.

R.G. Gregory
R.G. Gregory is Professor of Economics at the Research School of Social Sciences, Australian National University. His research interests focus mainly on Australian labour markets and welfare support. He has held appointments at the London School of Economics, Northwestern University, Harvard and the University of Chicago. In 1996 he was awarded the Order of Australia Medal.

Keith Hancock
Keith Hancock was Professor of Economics and Vice-Chancellor at Flinders University. In 1987, he moved to the Australian Conciliation and Arbitration Commission, later the Australian Industrial Relations Commission, and held the offices of Deputy President and Senior Deputy President. Since retiring in 1997, he has held honorary appointments at Adelaide and Flinders Universities.

Joe Isaac
Joe Isaac is a Professorial Fellow in the Department of Management, University of Melbourne. He was formerly Professor of Economics at both the University of Melbourne and Monash University, Deputy President, Australian Conciliation and Arbitration Commission; and Deputy Chancellor, Monash University.

Robin Kramar
Robin Kramar is a Professor of Management at Macquarie Graduate School of Management. She has a special interest in developments in human resource management, diversity management and corporate social responsibility. She is Editor of the journal, Asia Pacific Journal of Human Resources.
Russell Lansbury
Russell Lansbury is Professor of Work and Organisational Studies and Associate Dean (Research) in the Faculty of Economics and Business at the University of Sydney. He is co-editor of the Journal of Industrial Relations and undertakes research on international and comparative employment relations.

Ron McCallum
Ron McCallum is the foundation Blake Dawson Waldron Professor in Industrial Law at the University of Sydney. He is also the inaugural President of the Australian Labour Law Association. In July 2002 Professor McCallum commenced a five year term as Dean of the Faculty of Law of the University of Sydney.

Grant Michelson
Grant Michelson is Senior Lecturer in Work and Organisational Studies, School of Business, the University of Sydney. His research interests include new actors in industrial relations as well as the future of industrial relations and human resource management in Australia.

Barbara Pocock
Barbara Pocock is a Research Fellow and Associate Professor at the University of Adelaide. She has been researching work, employment and industrial relations since 1981. Her latest book, The Work/Life Collision, was published by Federation Press in 2003. Her next book is about the links between work, consumption and household relations.

Sue Richardson
Sue Richardson is Professor of Labour Economics and Director of the National Institute of Labour Studies at Flinders University. She was previously Reader in Economics at the University of Adelaide. She is President of the Academy of the Social Sciences in Australia and a part-time Commissioner with the Essential Services Commission of South Australia.

Malcolm Rimmer
Malcolm Rimmer is Professor and Head of the School of Business at La Trobe University. He has held senior academic positions at Deakin University and Monash University where he was Director of the National Key Centre in Industrial Relations.

Iain Ross
Iain Ross is a Vice President of the Australian Industrial Relations Commission. Prior to his appointment to the Commission in March 1994 he was an Assistant Secretary of the Australian Council of Trade Unions. He was appointed an Adjunct Associate Professor in Law at the University of Sydney in 2004.

Peter Saunders
Peter Saunders has been the Director of the Social Policy Research Centre at the University of New South Wales since 1987. His research interests include poverty and income distribution, household needs and living standards, social security reform and comparative social policy. He is currently an Australian Professorial Fellow.